Maintain the Dreaming – Our culture is our heritage

These are my Dreaming stories from my mother's and my father's country – Arrernte Dreaming tracks.

I live at Atitjere Homelands, which is Harts Range on the white fella's map.

Dreamings represented are the snake, yalka (bush onion), tjaipa (witchetty grub), honey ant and the seven sisters.

Alangwa is shown as a vital food supply which is constant and a strength to and for the people.

The hands symbolise the passing down of our Dreaming stories for our future generations – Heather Shearer
